Capability Statement

AI software that reads documents

Elevare by Amaziah develops AI software that analyzes documents, extracts key information, and helps users prepare drafts for review. A person checks every draft before it is final.

What we can build

- AI software for a specific job
- Tools that extract key details from forms so a person can review them in one place
- Workflows that stop for a person to approve at the important points
- Records that show how each result was made

Why you can check the work

- Drafts are made in small steps, not all at once
- Extra checks run after each step
- We keep a record of what was done and checked
- A person approves before anything is final

Our product: 4Close, foreclosure document preparation

4Close helps homeowners turn foreclosure paperwork into draft documents they can review, in Florida, Georgia, New York and Texas, once it is available. Our government work is built on the same review-first approach.

4Close is a document-preparation software tool, not a law firm or attorney. It does not give legal advice.
